

Ofsted Inspection

The school was inspected in April 2008. Since then there have been regular data reviews. We have also had SIAS and SIAMS inspections since 2008 which are also available to read.

You will find these reports by clicking on this link.

The overall effectiveness of the school was judged as outstanding and comments include:

The school's real strength lies in the fact that it meets a very wide range and variety of learning needs terrifically well. Parents feel strongly that this is the case. The following comments represent the views of a great number of them; "All my children have been very happy at St George's. It is a friendly school, which cares for all children whatever their needs and helps them achieve their best, whatever their ability."

- All pupils make exceptional progress in this outstanding school.

Our current performance data

Until this year we used to put up a document called a data dashboard. Performance data is now published as a document called an IDSR. The top page gives you an overview on any key areas for the school to work on and then each following section gives specific performance details.

Performance Tables

You can get statistics about school performance, including test results, teacher assessments, Ofsted reports and financial information, as well as being able to compare schools in your area, from the Department of Education website.

Ofsted's Parent View

Parent View gives you the chance to tell Ofsted what you think about your child's school.

You will be asked for your opinion on 12 aspects of your child's school, from the quality of teaching, to dealing with bullying and poor behaviour. They are very similar questions to our questions on our recent Parent Survey.

Ofsted Inspectors will use the information you provide when making decisions about which schools to inspect, and when.
